

SMELL & TASTE DISORDERS

Priority Setting Partnership

What is the Priority Setting Partnership?

It is a survey to help identify the most important research questions that patients, carers and clinicians have about smell and taste disorders.

Who Should Take Part?

Anyone affected directly or indirectly by a smell and/or taste disorder, whatever the cause and however long they have been affected.

Who Is Running The Survey?

Fifth Sense, the charity for people affected by smell and taste disorders, in partnership with the James Lind Alliance and working closely with the University of East Anglia and other collaborating organisations.

Why Should I Get Involved?

So that your voice can be heard and help shape future research and improve treatment for people with smell and/or taste disorders.

How Can I Take Part?

By visiting www.fifthsense.org.uk/smell-taste-psp and accessing the link to the survey.
